Police Think It Was Used in Fritsche's Place Only 4 Weeks—Little Used if at All in Fake Liquors Elsewhere

That the mysterious whiskey deaths which have been occurring in the "Striker's Farm" district along Tenth avenue have been due to wood alcohol, was finally established yesterday. Chemist Atkinson of the Health Department, to whom the comache of four of the supposed victims were turned over, reported to Coroner Scholer that in three cases he had found wood alcohol in sufficient quantity to cause death. The same report was made to the District Attorney.

The three cases were those of Michael Mc-Auliffe, of 698 Tenth avenue, the bartender in Fritsche's place, which has now been closed by the police and where wood alcohol has been found; Charles McLeavey, McAuliffe's chum, who lived at the same address, and Adolph Lehman, of 539 West Forty-eighth street. In the case of Christian Sachs, who died after drinking whiskey, no alcohol was found. An autopsy showed that Sachs had been suffering from asthma and heart trouble, and the Coroner and police have never believed that he was a "bad whiskey" victim.

A majority of the interments had taken place in the eighteen cases which Coroner Scholer and the police have reason to believe were due to bad whiskey, before the matter was reported.

The report of Chemist Atkinson was in the nature of a preliminary one, and a fuller one will be made within a couple of weeks. Rudolph Fritsche, the owner of the "barrel house" at 723 Tenth avenue, is now under bail as a suspicious person. When his examination comes up on Tuesday, the police hope to have the case sufficiently well made out to prefer a serious charge well made out to prefer a serious charge against him. Fritsche has also been held for Special Sessions on the charge of excise violation. As evidence against him the police have a two gallon can containing pure wood alcohol found in his cellar and samples taken from eight whiskey barrels, each showing, according to the analysis of the United States Government officers, more or less wood alcohol. One barrel, in particular, from which most of the liquor sold in the last four weeks had evidently been taken, showed such a quantity of wood alcohol that it is the theory of the police that as fast as its contents were used, more alcohol was poured in, with utter disregard of the proportions of the compound. This and seven other barrels are now at the Appraiser's Stores as a result of the raid made by the internal revenue offices on Thursday. that as fast as its contents were used, more Thursday.

The revenue officers are firm in the belief that Fritsche's saloon is an isolated case and that the use of wood alcohol has not been practised in the neighborhood, despite the reports to that effect. So far the police are of that opinion, too. Capt. Hussey of the West Forty-seventh street station, is still awaiting, howeyer, for a report from the Health Department of the analyses of about fifteen samples of whiskey taken from the six places in the neighborhood. When Fritsche was accused of using wood alcohol, he said that all the supposed victims had frequented other places and that therefore he could not be held responsible for their fate. The police and Coroner simply say that if the whiskey found in the other places is all right, Fritsche will have to make a better explanation before they are through with him.

Capt. Hussey said yesterday:

"We are satisfied that the use of wood alcohol in sufficent quantities to cause death has only gone on in Fritsche's place for four weeks past, if as long as that. There were no suspicious deaths reported before that time. In those four weeks the only persons we know of who could possibly know of the use of the poison are Fritsche himself and McAuliffe, now dead. The fact that it has now been shown that McAuliffe died himself from drinking whiskey with wood alcohol in it convinces me that he knew absolutely nothing about the use of wood alcohol for this purpose in that place." The revenueo fficers are firm in the belief

Capt. Hussey added that Fritsche could now be charged with a violation of the Pure Food law, for maintaining a public nuisance and for violation of two sections of the Federal statutes, under which the of the Federal statutes, under which the heaviest penalty is two years in prison.

There were no loiterers about "Striker's Farm" saloons yesterday. The bartenders had nothing to do but shake diee with themselves. In one saloon was displayed conspicuously this sign.

"Our goods are pure, We don't kill our systemate."

This drew a crowd on the outside, but very little trade.

one thing revealed to the satisfaction of the police and the Coroner is that more counterfeit drinks are sold than people have any idea of. The recipe books found in saloons have formulas for counterfeiting have any idea of. The recipe books found in saloons have formulas for counterfeiting everything from rye whiskey to Bénédiotine. These books are by dealers in the "oils" which distinguish each different drink, such as "oil of Bénédictine," which a saloonkeeper can buy for $2 a pound. The profit in using the counterfeit drinks is from 50 to 75 per cent. Dr. Wiley, the chemist of the Agricultural Department in Washington, was quoted yesterday as saying that 85 per cent. of the stuff dispensed was counterfeit. This way of counterfeiting different kinds of liquors is comparatively harmless, provided one does not take too much. Constant imbibling of fake drinks, as one expert said yesterof fake too much. Constant imbibing of fake drinks, as one expert said yesterday, meant in the end the destruction of one's stomach.

Coroner Scholer said yesterday that he thought it likely that wood alcohol had been used in other places in this city, but in quantities so small that it could not be detected.

WINDOW CLIMBERS KICKED HIM. Appellate Division Holds Ratiroad Responsible for Damages.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday overruled the decision of the lower court in the case of Stephen H. Grogan against the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company and ordered a new trial. Grogan was a passenger on an elevated railroad train in 1902. At the union station, Fifth avenue and Thirty-sixth street, the crowd in attempting to get on the train forced their way through the

on the train forced their way through the car windows as well as the doors. Grogan was kicked in the face, and he sued the railroad company for damages.

Justice Spencer held the company was not liable for the acts of passengers and dismissed the suit. Lawyer Sanders Shanks appealed the case and the Appellate Division held that the company had charge of the platform and had had charge of it three months prior to the accident and that complaint had frequently been made that these occurrences took place and therefore the company was responsible.

BANK CASHIER PLEADS GUILTY.

for making a false report of the bank's finances to the Comptroller of the United States Treasury, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court to-day and was sent to jail for five years.

Finney secured about $25,000 from the bank during his incumbency as cashier. A report which he made to the Comptroller of the Treasury was compared with his books last spring and it was discovered that the bank's funds were short a little more than $25,000. He was at once arrested and the Federal Grand Jury last Monday returned a true bill against him. He announced his intention of pleading guilty as soon as the Grand Jury's action was made known.

The office of the Industrial Federation, which also was "Diamond Phil's" office, is closed. A month's rent, $29.16, is due and unpaid, and the litter that was left in the office after somebody forced a desk and opened a safe, carrying away everything that threw any light on the doings of the federation, has been taken down to room 211 in the office building at 123 Liberty

"There's what's left of the Industrial Federation of America," said Mr. Warner resterday afternoon, pointing to a few dollars' worth of stationery and blank books piled on half a dozen shelves against the wall. "I have had several people calling here and asking for me as the 'receiver' of the company. I am not the receiver. A receiver has not been appointed. We simply got together and appointed a committee of ways and means, of which Mr.

mittee of ways and means, of which Mr. Nelson, Mr. Seeley and myself are members, to see what could be done to save the wreck-age that is left. I have no idea how much stock was sold or how much money was taken in. A sum of $15.000 was invested in the Tyrell Gas Machine Company in Newark, and I believe that is good. Somebody went into the office in Nassau street, broke open Weinseimer's deak, got the key of the safe out of it, opened the safe, broke open a compartment in the safe and took away everything there was pertaining to the company.

Messrs. Seeley and Nelson both said they knew nothing about the affairs of the com-pany except that they had put their money

District Attorney Jerome said yesterday that he was doing nothing about the Industrial Federation and that nothing could be done in a criminal way. The federation was organized in 1902 to reclaim Jamaica Bay lands and erect an "industrial city" thereon. Thousands of dollars were spent in advertising, office rent and so forth. Agents all over the country solicited subscriptions and many thousands of dollars were taken in. There was juggling over the title to the Jamaica Bay lands, the "industrial city" scheme collapsed and the original company was reorganized into a original company was reorganized into a new one bearing the same name and that nominally, at least, is still in existence.

British Band Plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

BUFFALO, Oct. 14 .- The oldest band in the British Army and the oldest band in the United States Army played "The Star SpangledBanner" in front of the Buffalo City Hall at noon to-day. It was the first time that the two bands have played together, and such a sight has never before been witnessed anywhere in the world. The British band was the band of the First Regiment of Foot Guards, commonly referred to as the British Grenadier Guards. The band stopped over here on its way home from St. Louis. The United States band was the band of the First United States Infantry, now stationed at Fort Porter in Buffalo. About 2,000 persons heard the bands play. BOYS MOB PUSHCART PEDLER

inted Police Charge Mob in Nassau Street Who Clamor for Man's Life While Citizens Guard Him-Lunch Hour Fooling Ends in General Ruction

The entire Broadway mounted squad was called out early yesterday afternoon to quell a disturbance in lower Nassau street that almost became a riot.

Every afternoon, when the office boys and messengers around the financial district go out to get their lunch, they tease by pretending to steal candies and fruit. and by poking fun at them. Yesterday afternoon a group of boys were having their fun everything there was pertaining to the company.

"What we are trying to do is to get a little order out of the chaos. The stock was sold to people—women and small wage earners all over the country among them—for sums all the way up from 10 cents to $22 or $23 a share. The shares have a face value of $1. Many agents were paid 10 cents a share commission for sales. They simply sold the shares to themselves for 10 cents a share, just the amount of their commission. In other words, they took the shares themselves, paid nothing for them and then showed so many sales.

It don't know what we can do. We are going to have a meeting in Mr. Seeley's office next Monday night to talk it over. If don't know of any talk of proceedings against Weinseimer. He resigned as secretary—in thing out of him when he was secretary—of the company. Nobody could get anything out of him when he was secretary—in to even civil treatment. He was as likely to tell anybody to go to hell as to answer his questions."

Messrs, Seeley and Nelson both said they within sight of the could be seen and the company of the agents of the company. Nelson both said they many and beys that had now swolle sight of the could be seen and the company of the affairs of the company. Nobody could get anything out of him when he was secretary—in the could be seen and the could trouble. He met the excited mob but was swallowed up by it before he could get within sight of the man who needed pro-tection. Soon another policeman came run-ning up and he, too, was powerless. Both used their clubs, but not even then could they make a way through the mass of ex-cited men and boys that had now swollen to thousands.

to thousands.

In the mean time the group of citizens were gathered close around the pedler and his pushcart and were fighting back the crowd that was trying to get at him. About this time someone called out the Broadway mounted squad. They dashed at full speed across City Hall Park and Park row, down Nassau street. The spectacle of a squad of mounted men, galloping through the busiest section of the city got everybody excited and Nassau and Beekman streets became choked with the people who ran after the cops.

The squad fought their way through the crowd until they reached the centre of excitement at Fulton and Nassau streets. The crowd was beaten to one side of the street, while the pedler, clinging to his pushcart, now nearly empty, begged for protection.

'Kill him!" shouted somebody; "he has After the squad had gained partial control over the crowd Policeman Byrne placed the pedler under arrest. He was taken to the Old Slip police station, a large part of the crowd still following and shouting for revenge. They were soon dispersed, however, by the mounted policemen who drove them up Nassau and William streets. No charge was made against the pedler.

HUNT STOLEN POWER BOAT. Officials Think It Was Used Here as Excursion Boat Under Another Name.

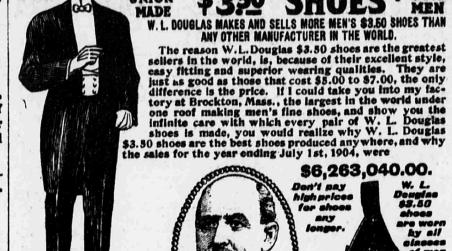

O. L. Tunis of Elizabethport, N. C., went to Collector Stranahan yesterday and said that a power boat about fifty feet in length and named the Waikaiki had been stolen from him in Elizabethport and brought to this port.

The customs officers think that some one has been running the Waikaiki in this harbor as an excursion boat. Complaint was received some time ago that such a boat was running about the harbor without Federal authority, and the Collector had several men searching the harbor in a launch

Mr. Tunis said that the boat was being run as the Luella. The records in the Collector's office show no such boat. It was learned, however, that the boat had been here, but within the last two days had disappeared.

The Collector's office has also learned that the Luella has gone South through the New Jersey-Delaware canals, and word has been sent to Baltimore requesting its detention.

Just how to determine judicially whether or not a man has a jag was solved by Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs police court yesterday when John W. UTICA, Oct. 14.-John Jones, 32 years old, was killed, and his brother, Fenton Jones, 28 years old, was fatally injured in a runaway accident near Newport, Herkimer county, last night. It is supposed that Fenton lost control of the team in coming down a hill, and that he was thrown out; that John, looking back, saw the accident and jumped out to go to his brother's aid, and was thrown down, probably by the runaway team, and his neck broken.
